

ANTITRUST AND HEALTH CARE! 10/29/2009

Perhaps I was naive when I begin the research for the book, "21ST CENTURY COMMON SENSE". The Antitrust Laws had done serious damage to the economy and had provided a mechanism for the "WANNABE PEERS" (politicians trying to regain the power and prestige afforded the 18th Century British Peers) to reward their political cronies with advantages over their competitors at your expense. How immature it was to think that the most important effect of these "non-objective" laws was the economic damage they caused. What I had never considered was that these laws were used to punish political dissent and coerce political support. How naive can you be? It did not take long to find that the most dangerous and destructive effect on our Republic was the ability of the "WANNABE PEERS" to use prosecution and the threat of prosecution for violation of the Antitrust Laws to punish and prevent political dissent.

Of course, political support loses its value when the public learns that it is coercion instead of conviction that has created that support. If the political support is to have any value, the coercion must be applied covertly and with the utmost discretion. Apparently, the "WANNABE PEERS" have developed so much confidence in their control of the "preponderance of propaganda" that they can dispense with the discretion and openly threaten the dissenters with retaliation.

On October 21, 2009 the Associated Press article (http://www.google.com/hostednews/ap/article/ALeqM5jlMpjGn28kqCcgU-aGcYE_ZHW-ywD9BFB7880) "Dems Eye Insurance Industry's Antitrust Protection" by David Espo appeared. The article stated that Senate democrats intended to strip the insurance industry of its antitrust exemption to punish the insurance industry for criticism of portions of the Obama Health Care Initiative. The following website address: http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20091021/ap_on_go_co/us_health_care_overhaul contains more details about the plan to coerce the insurance industry into supporting the "Obama Health Care Initiative".

Do you need more evidence that the "WANNABE PEERS" use the government's monopoly on force to punish political dissent and extort political support from the entrepreneur and successful business man?

Now you know why there is so little opposition from the business community against the "Cap and Trade" legislation, even though "Cap and Trade" legislation will be devastating to business and offers no advantages to the environment.
